DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: reference numerals in the abstract should be placed within parentheses.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

4. Claim 1 recites the limitation "the side of said negative-pressure generating source" in lines 17-18. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

5. Claim 2 recites the limitation "the tip" in line 3. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

6. Claim 2 recites the limitation of the teat holding portion including a region with an increased cross-sectional area. It is unknown with what the cross-sectional area is increased in relation to.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

7. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 3643

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

8. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by Grindal US 5,666,904.

Modified Figure 1, US 5,666,904

9. Regarding claim 1, Grindal discloses a teat cup for laboratory animals wherein one side of the teat cup is attached to the udder of a laboratory animal (Grindal, abstract), through suction and the other side of said teat cup is connected to a negative-pressure generating source via a milk collecting container (Grindal, column 1: line 18) with said teat cup comprising a first conical portion (100), a second conical portion (21) continuous from the first conical portion, a third conical portion (101) continuous from the second conical portion, a cylindrical teat holding portion (23) continuous from the third conical portion and a connecting portion (16) which is connected (as best understood) on the side of the negative-pressure generating source, wherein the second conical portion, the third conical portion, and the teat holding portion are dimensioned slightly larger than the actual sizes of the conically bulging portion of the udder, said teat base portion, and the teat of the laboratory animal to be milked.

10. Regarding claim 2, Grindal further discloses the teat holding portion includes a region with an increased cross-sectional area (as best understood) near where the tip of the teat is to be located (Grindal, Figure 1).

11. Regarding claim 3, Grindal further discloses the teat holding portion comprises a conical surface (102) that becomes narrower toward the tip thereof.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

12. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

13. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Grindal US 5,666,904 in view of Briggs et al US 6,427,624.

14. Regarding claim 4, Grindal discloses the device of claim but does not disclose the teat cup being transparent. Briggs teaches a teat cup with is entirely made of transparent material (Briggs, column 3: lines 16-24). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the device of Grindal so that it was made of entirely transparent material so that the flow of milk from the teat cup could be observed (Briggs, column 3: lines 16-21).
